Agnihotri joins Religare Macquarie

ABHISHEK ANAND

New Delhi

IN A effort to capture a larger share of wealth management market, Religare Macquarie Wealth Management has appointed Vikas Agnihotri as the chief executive officer of the company. Religare Macquarie Wealth Management is a 50:50 joint venture between Religare Wealth Management Services and Macquarie Banking and Financial Services.

The appointment of Vikas is with the view of giving a fillip to newly-formed wealth management company. Both Religare and Macquarie believe that the wealth management market in the country is on long-term growth momentum, primarily driven by buoyant economy. Further, the unprecedented level of wealth creation is expanding the size of country's affluent and high net worth individuals and hence, the wealth management market would require new and innovative standards and Vikas vast experience would come handy.

Vikas would be based out of Mumbai and would be responsible to take key decision, designing strategies and successful implementation. He would also be responsible for representing the company with integrity before institutions, investors and analysts.
