

| | |
|----------------|----------------|
| Newspaper Name | The Statesman |
| Date | 06-02-09 |
| Page | 10 |
| Description | Age old wisdom |

Age old wisdom

A recurrent theme of contemporary times has been one of divisiveness. Divisiveness within family structures, society and the world at large; divisiveness brought forth sometimes by the realigned realities of work and life patterns and sometimes by the rhetoric and aggression of political institutions. The constant representation and reassertion of this theme has become an inescapable reality.

Pratibha and Sanjay's works re-examine this rhetoric and revisit the insoluble connections between us and them and everything that surrounds us. In their work lies the clues to a counter perspective or age-old wisdom. 'Everything under the sun... almost' will showcase 25 of their recent works from 7 February till 8 March at the Religare Arts.